The Borgen Project, Global Poverty, and What We Can Do to Help

Mission Statement: The Borgen Project believes that leaders of the most powerful nation on earth should be doing more to address global poverty. We're the innovative, national campaign that is working to make poverty a focus of U.S. foreign policy.

- The Borgen Project (its founding, what it does)
- The current state of global poverty (some statistics and trends)
- What is being done in terms of aid from the United States and how that compares to other rich nations.
- How global poverty can affect the United States economy and our national security
- Clear up misconceptions on the subject (such as "foreign aid mainly goes towards corruption" and "we shouldn't address global poverty while we still have domestic poverty")
- The current goals of the Borgen Project
- How citizens can help

Since our inception in 1871 as the Oshkosh Normal School for teacher training, our dedication to quality and innovative higher education has been a hallmark of our success as a premier comprehensive institution. Over the decades, our name has changed several times and our educational focus has expanded to meet the needs of students in our region and beyond.
